

New Supernatural Game On Facebook

POSTED BY KIMBERLY LYNN WORKMAN ON AUGUST - 2 - 2010

I've never been a big user of Facebook. All those different games floating around, all my friends sending requests or pleas to "join me here" never appealed to me. I was happy just automatically feeding my status updates from Twitter and hardly ever visiting the actual site. Well, that all changed lately because one of my friends turned me on to a game I cannot live without—The Supernatural Facebook Game!

The set-up is simple. You start off as Sam Winchester or some unnamed female character and then you're ready to go. The number of teammates you have depends on how many of your Facebook friendslist are also playing the game. Your mission is to complete jobs, which are based on the jobs the boys completed during the first season. So, you're happily having a normal life in Stanford, join up with your brother to check out the case of Constance Welch, confront a Wendigo, fight some vampires, and have many other adventures that make it a normal day in the life of the Winchester brothers. The game allows you to complete hunts, run scams, and gather hidden items all in your quest to proceed further through the levels.

So, if you're looking to have some fun while sharing your love of all things Supernatural, have I got a game for you!

Illustration Credit: GamingUnleashed UK